HOW WILL NIMITZ DRIVE STRAIGHT TO CHINA? Declaration by Admiral Nimitz that "his forces intend to drive straight across the Pacific to China to gain bases for the final defeat of Japan" is certain to raise many questions which this map seeks to illustrate. Since he made the statement shortly after the Marshall Island victory, Kwajalein harbor (1) will doubtless figure prominently. Either Truk or Wake (2) must be openly defied by convoys or quick action taken against them. If Wake is knocked out this "straight drive" might challenge the Jap fleet to "come out." A more northerly route via Midway (3) appears the final possibility. Where will they try to land in China? That's as hard to answer as how a run near the Philippines or Formosa can be managed. As arrow indicates action from New Guinea and New Britain may figure in the plans.

JAPS SUFFER NEW DEFEAT

U. S. and Australian Forces Join After Clearing Foe from Huon Area.

By The Associated Press

The Japanese faced a further breakdown of vital southern defenses today while American naval and air squadrons hacked away at the enemy's severed line of island bases in the central Pacific.

Nipponese forces once dominant in all of the Bismarck archipelago suffered a decisive defeat when Australian and American troops joined hands below Saidor, New Guinea, to complete occupation of the jungle-covered Huon peninsula.

Successful conclusion of the five-months long campaign not only gave the allies control of an additional 150 miles of New Guinea's northeastern coastline, but, General MacArthur announced today, the offensive cost the Japanese the bulk of approximately 14,000 men.

Gain New Positions

The Australians who swept up the Huon peninsula and the U. S. troops which met 10 miles south of the American beachhead at Saidor now command positions from which to strike at enemy bases in the Madang sector. Madang itself has been reported abandoned by the Japanese, and allied planes have turned their attacks on nearby Alexishafen.

Heavy Snow in County Causes Accidents, Traffic Slow-Up

Heaviest snowfall of the winter enveloped Marion county and much of Ohio last night causing at least three accidents in the county, slowing trains and handicapping traffic. It was partial relief for near-drouth conditions on farms. Five and one-half inches of snow had fallen up to 10 a. m. today.

A Marion county selectee, partially blinded by the snow, escaped injury when his auto hit a train as he was on his way to take a military physical examination.

A Zanesville driver was hurt when snow blinded him and his car ran off the road south of Marion.

The snow was blamed for a three-car accident in Marion.

A fleet of nine state and county snowplows went into action at midnight and stayed on the job throughout the morning. City streets were salted at intersection approaches.

Ohio is in the path of a wave of colder weather, due to strike tonight, The Associated Press reported.

Accident Fails To Halt Selectee's Departure

Richard Whiteamire of near Kirkpatrick narrowly escaped serious injury when his car was involved in a collision with an east bound Erie freight train at about 6 a. m. today.

The young man, enroute to report to a draft board from which he was leaving for a pre-induction physical at Columbus, told highway patrolmen that because of the snowfall he was unable to see the train, in time to avoid sliding into it. The accident occurred at the crossing on Route 98, just north of five points. The car, skidding into the side of the train, was demolished but Whiteamire escaped without a scratch.

Given Ride to Marion

He expressed concern over getting into Marion in time to leave with the other selectees and state highway patrolmen helped him get a ride into town. The board officials later called the patrol office saying he had made connections. Whiteamire is married and has two children.

All of the selectees scheduled to leave Board 3 this morning arrived ahead of time in spite of the blizzard, setting somewhat of a record since the group was the largest to leave from that board in the past few months. Almost all had to come from rural communities and all reported that roads were drifted.

One Overslept

One of the selectees reported in late because he failed to get up in time. He told board officials that he had checked into a hotel last night after coming from Michigan, and left a call for early this morning. The call came on time too, but to the wrong room. Later when he awoke he reported to the board and arrangements were for him to leave later. His parents live in Morral, but the young man has been employed recently in Michigan. He returned to his local board for his pre-induction physical.

Almost all of the group are pre-Pearl Harbor fathers, most of them having more than one child.

Wide Area in Grip of Cold Wave

By The Associated Press

A heavy, wind-whipped snow storm struck the northeastern part of the United States today while in a wide section of the already snow-blanketed midwest the season's most severe cold wave drove temperatures far below zero.

Trains arriving in New York City from western, southern and northern points were running as much as two and a half hours behind schedule. Airplane flights out of LaGuardia field, New York, were cancelled.

ADMITS ASSAULTING MILK INSPECTOR

Man Near Morral Fined, Gets Suspended Jail Sentence.

Ross E. Hobson, 32, of near Morral pleaded guilty in municipal court this morning to charges of assault and battery against Dr. J. T. Gruber, city milk inspector, and of selling milk in Marion without a permit.

Judge Dexter Hazen fined him $200 on the assault and battery charge, suspending $50 of that amount. He also gave him a 30-day jail sentence which was suspended on the condition that there be no further difficulty with Dr. Gruber.

On the milk selling charge, Judge Hazen fined him $10 and costs, suspending this provided there is no future violation.

Both Hobson and Dr. Gruber appeared before Judge Hazen, and after the guilty pleas were entered both told their sides of the story to the judge to guide him in disposing of the cases.

Both accounts reported substantially the same, were that the assault occurred at the Hobson farm when Dr. Gruber went to see Hobson after learning he was selling milk in Marion without a permit. Hobson admitted striking Dr. Gruber, knocking him down. Dr. Gruber said he threatened further harm if a permit to sell milk in Marion were refused him. Hobson said he didn't know exactly what he told Dr. Gruber because he was "pretty mad" at the time.

Attorney said Hobson apologized for the incident and that

RUSSIAN GUNS SHELL TRAPPED NAZI TROOPS

Remnants of 100,000 German Soldiers Hammered As Trap Tightens.

By The Associated Press

LONDON, Feb 11 — Russian guns pounded the remnants of some 100,000 German troops trapped in a narrowing circle near Korsun in the Dnieper river bend today as converging Red army columns drove within seven miles of that city and other Soviet troops pressed their assault on the iron ore center of Krivoi Rog, 150 miles to the southeast.

Disintegration of the beleaguered Nazi forces was hastened yesterday when Soviet spearheads split off several groups from the main body, which once numbered 10 divisions, a Russian communique said. The bulletin said the exhausted Germans were surrendering in steadily mounting numbers in the struggle against the converging Soviet armies of Gens Nikolai F. Vatutin and Ivan S Konev.

Another Stalingrad

Associated Press dispatches from Moscow indicated the German army was facing its biggest disaster since Stalingrad.

In the far north, the Russians said, Gen. Leonid A. Govorov's Leningrad army captured Zheltsy, seven miles northeast of Luga, rail junction on the Leningrad-Pskov railway.

Gen. K. A. Meretskov's Volkhov army, southern arm of the pincer drive on Luga, was last reported within 14 miles of the German-held base. Luga is 70 miles east of Lake Peipus, which forms part of the eastern frontier of Estonia.

GOVERNOR CLARIFIES CAMPAIGN ISSUES

By EARL BERKLEY
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11—Governor Bricker left Ohio members of congress convinced today that he had answered emphatically contentions he is trying to win the Republican nomination for president without definite commitments on policy.

They said the governor made himself clear on at least three important points in his speech before highly placed Republicans from Ohio and elsewhere at a Lincoln day dinner last night.

Representative Thomas A. Jenkins of Ironton, dean of Ohio Republicans in the house, told reporters Bricker would not resort to "campaign oratory" in his contest against "all comers" for the presidency.

The governor, said representative Walt E. Brehm of Logan, would call on congress to pass stringent legislation against strikes in wartime, carry forward the war program of the army and navy departments, and oppose strenuously a national service law

School War Loan "Treasure Hunt" Set To Start Saturday

Pupils To Stage Drive To Have Unfilled Stamp Books Converted Into "E" Bonds.

Saturday and Monday are going to be "Treasure Hunt" days in Marion.

The hunters are to be boys and girls of the city's elementary schools.

The object of their hunt will be treasure in the form of war bonds.

The "find" that will delight the hunters most will be unfilled stamp books in Marion homes, provided they can induce the owners of these books to put enough cash with them to get a war bond before the Fourth War Loan ends.

Pupils were to get complete instructions at all elementary schools this afternoon. Armed with letters explaining the treasure hunt and applications for bond purchases, the pupils will scour the city Saturday, and finish their work Monday morning from recess time until noon.

They will take all applications they have been able to obtain to one of the city's three junior high schools. Then on Tuesday, the junior high school pupils will step into their part of the big hunt by going to homes that have signed application blanks. They will be equipped and prepared to close the sales listed on the applications gathered by elementary pupils.

The "treasure hunt" is the second and final phase of the city schools' Fourth War Loan campaign. The first phase of the drive was held yesterday and today through the sale of bonds to pupils and teachers. In the "treasure hunt," the public at large will be asked to do its part ordering bonds through the schools.

You can assure an elementary pupil a red ticket to wear for days to come if you hand him or her an application for a bond in

Bricker's Lincoln Day Speech Acclaimed by G. O. P. Leaders

Ohio Governor Takes Cover Off Campaign Strategy in Address Before 1,200 in Washington.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Feb 11 [illegible] John W. Bricker, who is governor of Ohio [illegible] took [illegible] to the third act today [illegible] a critical Washington [illegible] the Republican nomination.

Given an unofficial [illegible] at a packed press conference and the applause and cheers of a Republican crowd at a Lincoln's birthday banquet last night, Bricker today faced another [illegible] group at a National Press Club luncheon.

Confident he was passing muster, Bricker supporters already were congratulating themselves on having put on a good show for the third-term governor. They made plans to send him off next month to the west coast where a potential rival, Wendell L. Willkie is the current political attraction.

Speaking for the group that would like to see Bricker nominated, Senator Taft (R-Ohio) said he thought the 50-year-old governor had made a good impression.

Bricker left no doubt where he stands on some of the big issues of the day in his banquet talk and at his press conference. He struck out at labor unrest, advocating wartime anti-strike laws and dismissing the national service act proposal indorsed by President Roosevelt as "no answer to this problem at this late date."

"The time has come," he declared, "to support the millions of workers who want to work and quit coddling selfish labor leaders for the sake of the votes which they say they can deliver in an election."

He chided the Democrats for having "only one candidate"—presumably President Roosevelt—and voiced resentment that they should attempt to appropriate a "win the war" slogan as their own for the campaign.

Criticizing the administration for what he called its "confused program of spend, waste, borrow and tax," Bricker drew cheers in his banquet speech when he said he was "more interested in winning the coming election for the Republican party and in defeating the New Deal philosophy of government than I am in being president of the United States."

Urging cooperation with other countries to preserve future peace Bricker called for an overhauling of fiscal policies he said would be necessary if the United States is to be strong enough to "help build an international house upon a solid rock."

Sen Harold H Burton of Cleveland said "it was a good straightforward speech. His statements on the domestic situation were clarifying. His statements on the tax situation were particularly good."

Mrs. Alice Roosevelt Longworth, daughter of the late President Theodore Roosevelt, termed it "a smashing fighting speech."

Rep Joseph W. Martin Jr. of Massachusetts, Republican floor leader, and former national chairman, declared "it was a fine fighting speech. It was a notable contribution to the Republican campaign of 1944," and former [illegible] chairman Henry P. Fletcher called it "an outstanding fighting Republican speech."

The audience of more than 1,200 persons in the Mayflower hotel applauded and cheered frequently, especially when Bricker mentioned wartime strikes and asked for legislation to take government power out of the hands of "arrogant bureaucrats."

Reveals His Strategy

Bricker took the wraps off his presidential campaign strategy and unfolded his plan to:

1—Fight the Roosevelt policies down the line of domestic issues—subsidies, taxes, financing, labor, national service and the service vote.

2—Leave the conduct of the war to the admirals and generals who, he thinks, should get most of the credit and should not be "interfered" with.

He laid down a five-plank platform which, he said, would root out "absolutism" and "restore order and sanity" in government.

Bricker, evincing confidence, revealed his ideas in greater detail than ever before and said that this was possible because he had had time to formulate them since he first decided to get into the race. His confidence was echoed by House Minority Leader Martin of Massachusetts, who introduced Bricker, saying:

"The old elephant is on the march; he sniffs victory in the air."

Martin said the G. O. P. will win in November because "millions of honest, sincere, patriotic Jeffersonian Democrats will submerge party to the welfare of their country" and join with the Repub- [illegible] [illegible] Since [illegible] after the World War the people turned to the Republican party to rebuild [illegible] the economy of the country and history is repeating.

Frankfurt Hit 2nd Time in 4 Days by Forts

By The Associated Press

LONDON, Feb 11—American Flying Fortresses blasted Frankfurt-On-Main with tons of high explosive again today, striking the already hard hit southwest German industrial and transport center for the second time in four days and the fourth time since Jan 29.

While this devastating assault to flatten Frankfurt was in progress, Liberators again operated independently of the Forts, slashing at military installations in the Pas-De-Calais area and American Marauders in the ninth operation in 11 days struck other targets in the "rocket gun" sector of northern France.

Today's operations followed up yesterday's mighty attacks on the German manufacturing city of Brunswick and the Gilze-Rijen air base in Holland which precipitated furious air fights in which American heavy bombers and fighters were credited officially with downing 81 enemy planes.

The hunt will be through the Claridon district and the sportsmen are required to be armed with shotguns. No rifles are allowed.

COUNTER-REVOLT IN BOLIVIA REPORTED

By The Associated Press

SANTIAGO, CHILE, Feb. 11—The newspaper La Hora said today it had received a private but unconfirmed report that the recently established nationalist government of Gualberto Villarroel in Bolivia had been ousted in a counter-revolution and the leaders jailed.

The newspaper's information was similar to the broadcast by the Santiago station, Radio Agricultura, last night.

(In Buenos Aires, Adolfo Costa Durels, Bolivian ambassador to Argentina, said he had received no official information concerning reports of a revolution in Bolivia. There were indications telephone communications with the Bolivian capital had been interrupted.)

Commissioner Jones Files for Nomination

J. D. Jones of 637 Irey avenue, has announced his candidacy for nomination for county commissioner on the Republican ticket and has filed his papers with the county board of elections. Mr. Jones, now serving on the board, took office March 1 last year following appointment as successor to the late Urban F. Zachman.

Mr. Jones was appointed to serve only until the next regular election in November, and he now seeks the nomination for the short term of the remaining two years of what would have been Mr. Zachman's full term.

PART OF CRAFT IS LOCATED IN MISSISSIPPI

American Airlines Transport Seen To Fall Into Water, and Disappear.

By The Associated Press

MEMPHIS, Feb 11—The coast guard reported today that divers had located part of an American Airlines transcontinental plane that crashed into the Mississippi river with 24 persons aboard.

A cryptic radio message from patrol boats to headquarters here said merely "piece of plane found." Later contact with the boat and it definitely was part of the plane.

The coast guard and U. S. army engineers were conducting the search in a 22-foot channel 15 miles below Memphis where an employe of the engineers said he saw the ship crash and explode.

Crewmen with the U. S. engineers reported hearing the plane flying low overhead and one said he saw it hit the water and sink seconds after being enveloped in flames.

Witness Sees Explosion

"There was a terrific explosion and fire," said Charley Williams, watchman for an engineer's crew. "It seemed to sink immediately."

When Williams and Foreman W. R. Wellborn reached the scene by boat, they found no trace of the big plane, which was enroute from Los Angeles to New York.

Williams said the plane was on its course for the Memphis airport where it was due at 11:38 p. m. (CWT).

"It was quite low," Williams said, "and appeared to be tipped a little to the right but the engines seemed to be all right and there were no flames. It angled into the river about half way across."

Coast guard boats and searching parties, including one from the airline's Memphis office and another of agents from the federal bureau of investigation, searched the area without success for three hours before daylight. Grappling hooks were to be used but rivermen said delay might be expected in discovering the plane if it broke up in the swift current before hitting bottom.

10 in Armed Service

At least 10 of the 21 passengers aboard the plane, flight No. 2, which stopped at Dallas and Little Rock, were members of the armed forces. The three crewmen were Capt. D. B. Francis, First Officer R. R. Majors and Stewardess Doyle Holyber, all based at Fort Worth.

Weather conditions at the time the plane reported itself near the river—seven minutes before due in Memphis—were described as "scattered, broken clouds" with the temperature near freezing.

The plane was communicating with the airlines office when it crossed a route marker at Bruin, Ark., which notifies the pilot to prepare for landing. It did not make the routine contact with the airport tower for landing instructions.

Officials were unable to advance any probable cause of the crash.

J. O. Conner, Memphis station manager, said the coast guard and U. S. engineers were in charge of the search. The engineers sent a barge with a crane to the scene and hoped to raise the plane and bring it to Memphis before removing any bodies.

The Navy disclosed the 12th raid of the war against Wake island Tuesday in the central Pacific. Navy Coronado bombers hit the former U. S. base, 620 miles northeast of Kwajalein, American-captured atoll in the Marshalls.

A three-day series of army air strikes smashed at unspecified targets in the Marshalls while surface units of the Pacific fleet shelled two enemy-held islands of the same coral group seriously threatened by U. S. acquisition of Kwajalein.

By The Associated Press

PORTSMOUTH, O., Feb. 11—A thousand-dollar reward awaits the finder of a blond, blue-eyed high school girl—Wilda "Billie" Ramey—who vanished mysteriously nearly a year ago.

Mrs. Naomi Ramey Peed, offered the sum for information leading to return of her daughter, who failed to appear for classes at Portsmouth High school one day and has not been seen or heard from since.

Mrs. Peed, saying she could think of no reason why Billie would want to leave home, described the girl as five feet three inches tall and weighing 94 pounds. She would be 18 now.

AIR ATTACK

resses to Frankfurt, and other Thunderbolts covered the Liberators on their run to France.

Heavy bombers of the USAAF now have struck continental objectives in 12 of the past 15 days.

The terrific assault obviously designed to flatten Frankfurt has been under way since Jan. 29.

It was estimated officially today more than 3,500 tons of bombs were rained on that manufacturing and communications hub in three previous daylight attacks.

The rumble of explosions rolled back across the English channel this morning as the bombers hit the Pas-De-Calais area.

Mosquito Planes Active

The daylight forays came in the wake of RAF Mosquito attacks on western Germany and mine laying in German waters from which all RAF planes returned safely.

The Mosquitos' raid was their first attack on Berlin since Feb. 6 but they have been over western Germany every night this month but one.

There was no early report of losses today but a U. S. communique said 29 American bombers and eight fighters were lost in yesterday's raids.

The fiercest opposition was encountered by Flying Fortress formations which struck at Brunswick in an attempt to knock out vital airplane assembly plants there.

It was the third heavy American attack upon Brunswick, and returning fliers said the Germans apparently sent every available fighter aloft in an effort to repel the assault.

In addition to the 84 German planes destroyed by American airmen yesterday, RAF Typhoons shot down six Nazi aircraft during forays over northern France in which U. S. Marauders participated. Three allied planes were lost.

RUSSIA

Soviet forces inside Estonia, last reported advancing on Narva on the Leningrad-Reval railway, was given in the Moscow bulletin. The communique also omitted mention of the situation inside old Poland, where units of Gen. Vatutin's First Ukrainian army have been reported operating in the vicinity of Rovno and Lutsk.

The Germans in the Korsun salient were said to be dying in great numbers under the hammering of Soviet batteries. Adding to the hopelessness of the Germans' situation was a rapidly decreasing food supply and destruction of their airfields.

Ten more Junkers three-engined transport planes and four fighters were reported shot down by Red army airmen yesterday while trying to reach the trapped Nazis with supplies.

The Moscow war bulletin said Gen. Rodion Y. Malinovsky's third Ukrainian army had killed 1,300 Nazis and captured many more in its drive in Krivoi Rog yesterday. Malinovsky's forces were reported more than 45 miles west of captured Nikopol.

URGE WIDER USE OF AIR TRANSPORT

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, Feb. 11—The Navy today urged more Ohio war plants to take advantage of an air transport system that brings the world's battle fronts within mere hours flying time of the state.

From a Navy base estimated at Cleveland municipal airport the Navy is moving between two and six tons of Ohio war equipment a day, making the trip to the South Pacific battle fronts in 72 hours, Ensign R. J. Meyer, navy air transport service chief here reported.

"Lives often depend on our ability to get the proper supplies to the proper place in the least possible time," the former United Airlines Cleveland cargo manager and pilot said. "We want more war plants here to take advantage of the speedy service we offer."

Meyer explained three and four priority classes of materials could be cleared through the Cleveland naval materials inspector, Capt. Ralph T. Hanson, and top priority classes could be cleared through the Navy's bureau of supplies and account in Washington.

A son, Frederick William, was born Feb. 2 to Ensign and Mrs. W. E. Houk of Brunswick, Ga., according to word received by Ensign Houk's parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Houk of 497 Wilson avenue.

Whether or not German forced labor will eventually be used in Russia or in other parts of Europe for purposes of rehabilitation will not, of course, be decided by public opinion. The importance of the present findings lies in their indication of sentiment toward the German people, and the desire of U. S., British, and Canadian citizens to see the German people, as well as the Nazi leaders, punished for this war. Moreover, the results are also indicative of widespread sympathy for the plight of war-torn Russia.

Soldier Praises Canteen Workers

To those who have wondered if the Marion Service Canteen workers are on duty only on pleasant days or during convenient hours comes this answer taken from a letter written by a bombardier who passed through on Jan. 28.

"Tonight we met Marion, O... and found a deeper meaning in the acquaintance that spoke in secret. America. The fine treatment that was ours, not only from the ladies that smilingly distributed the delicacies but from all who lined that dark station on a night unpleasant with rain, re-echoes a refrain of home appreciated by the Jim, Bob, Jerry and Ed who are classed sometimes mistakenly as tough and hardened bombardier, pilot, gunner and navigator....

"A smile, a friendly word, a kind thought and a cheerful act were synonomous with what we knew and cherished, and tonight, for a few brief moments, we relived those joys because the people of Marion took us to their hearts."

The letter, addressed to the mayor, asked that the women on duty that night be thanked especially because "we all join in saying, "we're humbly grateful."

The young man, a sergeant, wrote that some time when they were downhearted they would recall the friendly service and remember that Marionites had kept faith with them and they, remembering that could find the courage to go on. The letter closed with the signature "just Joe."

CAN AMERICA WALK TO VICTORY

IF AUTOMOBILE TRANSPORTATION BREAKS DOWN?

HERE ARE SOME FACTS TO THINK ABOUT
Before This Question Can Be Answered

FIRST——There are not enough late model '39, '40, '41, and '42 cars available to replace essential older model cars which are being scrapped, therefore many older model cars must be kept in running order.

SECOND—Only skilled mechanics with proper tools and equipment, backed by management able to procure the necessary replacement parts can do this job.

THIRD——It takes years for an automobile mechanic to learn his trade and to accumulate an adequate set of tools.

FOURTH—"Pearl Harbor" found Marion, Ohio, with 11 New Car Dealers—with 65 mechanics and well equipped service departments to care for our 12,800 cars.

FIFTH——1944 finds Marion, Ohio, with 7 New Car Dealers still in business with 29 mechanics trying to care for 11,100 cars 80% of which are 5 or more years old.

SIXTH——Our trained mechanics have been siphoned away by the armed forces, the Seabees and war plants sometimes under the false impression that their draft status was at stake if they stayed in their own essential trade.

SEVENTH-We have been unable to get any auto mechanics through the local U. S. Employment Office.

In keeping with a ruling of the OPA district office in Columbus, distribution of ration books and certificates issued through the local rationing office will be made by mail. Edson W. Barnhart chairman of the Marion county war price and rationing board, announced today. Only in emergencies and in the case of soldiers at home on leave will rations be issued immediately.

Recent burglaries of local ration board offices prompted the change in the method of issuance of ration books. Under the new system the board will have on hand each day only a sufficient number of ration books to take care of the applications approved the previous day.

Applicants are urged to submit their applications by mail rather than appear at the board in person. ... applicant will be relieved of making an unnecessary trip to the board.

While there are disadvantages to the newly inaugurated system, it will be a convenience in many other ways, the board points out. Elimination of counter service will speed up clerical work by permitting the panel clerks to perform their work without interruption and applications will be filed upon receipt.

CHAPLIN INDICTED ON MANN ACT CHARGE

By The Associated Press

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 11 — Slight, white-haired, dapper Charlie Chaplin, who as the lovable little tramp comedian used to play with deft fingers on a world's heartstrings in the realm of film mimicry, faced today the stern reality of a federal indictment charging him with Mann act violation.

The 54-year-old, four-times-married comedian was accused of the additional felony of conspiracy as a federal grand jury late yesterday concluded its inquiry into his relationship with red-haired Joan Berry, 23, Chaplin's former protege who asserts Chaplin is the father of her 4-months-old daughter.

Six others were indicted along with Chaplin for an asserted conspiracy to deprive Miss Berry of her ... rights ... arrest on a vagrancy charge Jan. ..., 1943, in Beverly H...

The Mann act indictment ... alleged ... that on ... 1942, he transported Miss Berry from Los Angeles to New York City with intent to ... and sex relations with him and ... defendant ... his mistress."

The second ... is based on Miss Berry's return from New York City to Los Angeles.

Chaplin was in seclusion but his attorney, Jerry Giesler, said the comedian would surrender to the U. S. marshal Monday ... that the ... reserve judgment until the ... had his day in court."

The conspiracy allegations are that Miss Berry's arrest was plotted, that she was refused access to legal counsel and unduly intimidated into leaving California.

The six named with Chaplin in the conspiracy charges are Beverly Hills City Judge Charles Griffen, Capt. W. White, Lt. Claude Marple and Matron Jessie Bill Reno, of the Beverly Hills police department, Robert Arden, radio commentator whose real name is Rudolph Kluger, and Thomas Wells (Tim) Durant, former film studio official and a friend of Chaplin.

Chaplin's present wife is Oona O'Neill, 18-year-old daughter of the playwright Eugene O'Neill, whom Chaplin married last June, two weeks after Miss Berry had sued on charges he was the father of her then unborn child.

A U. S. attorney's office attache said Chaplin, if convicted on all four ... would be ... maximum of 23 years ... and fines ... $2...

Piles Are Never 'Mild'

DANGER IN NEGLECT

No one should ever think of piles (hemorrhoids) as a "mild" disorder.

Although they may seem a mild ailment, especially when [illegible] the pain or inconvenience, piles are in fact tumor formations without tendency to heal themselves. Instead, they are likely to be neglected to keep increasing in size involving more and more of the rectal area.

Even a so-called "mild" case may be expected to undermine one's health by inviting predisposing to or aggravating other ailments such as: indigestion, biliousness, stomach trouble, constipation, headaches, pain in the back and down the legs, secondary anemia with its rundown tired feeling, and general nervous irritability.

If therefore, you are distressed by what you have regarded as only a "mild" case of piles, do not by any means, allow that to be a reason for neglecting them.

Removal of piles is the only permanent relief—written guarantee. My method produces little or no discomfort, requires no anaesthetic nor the use of knife or drugs and seldom is the patient required to lose any time from work or other duties.

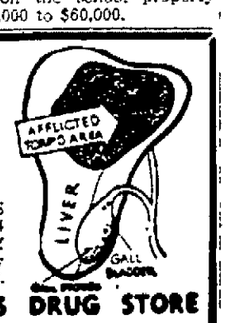

There is no undue exposure, and you will find that the dignity with which the examination is conducted will quickly make you lose any feeling of self consciousness. We invite you to call and learn of this method. The examination is free.

100 Germans Wave Flag, Then Sprint to American Lines

By REYNOLDS PACKARD
Representing the Combined American Press
(Distributed by The Associated Press)

AT THE ANZIO BEACHHEAD FRONT, Feb 9 — (Delayed)—After undergoing 15 minutes of concentrated American artillery fire, almost 100 Germans crept from their fox holes in one front sector today, crawled into the center of no-man's land, raised their white flag and then sprinted to the American lines to keep from being shot down from behind.

Capt. Edmond J. Tomasik of New Bedford, Mass., recognized some of the prisoners as Poles.

Of Polish origin himself, Capt Tomasik addressed three of the group in their own language. They were embarrased by what he said.

He related later:

"I told them I was horrified to see Poles fighting as part of the German army and that they should be ashamed of themselves.

"They replied that they were compelled to fight, as they had been inducted and given no other choice, so I just ended the conversation by saying 'Well, then, you didn't need to resist for 15 hours'."

THE "HOME FRONT" Does Its Part

Man, woman and child—each knows by now that the power which illuminates our homes is also used to operate the dynamos, turbines, lathes and motors producing the implements of war: moving supplies to the front: fueling our ships. That is why we are all urged to use only as much light as we need—and to waste none. Your appliance dealer will be glad to help you plan your wartime lighting for wartime economy.

THE "FARM FRONT" Comes of Age

Electrification of our farms at first was a great boon to the farmer and his family: easing their labors and increasing their production. Now, in time of war, when the farms of the nation must vitally produce the Food that Fights for Freedom, electrification of farm equipment has come to mean even more. The farmer knows how precious that light and power are. we help him help the cause of Victory when we conserve electricity.

THE FACTORY—A Fighting Front

Whether it is producing the machines with which this war is actually being fought—or whether it is producing a part of that vast quantity of war-time civilian needs, the factory is the supply line of the nation and its fighting forces. Without electricity it cannot produce. Your Electric Light and Power Company will not fail the nation's factories in wartime: do your share, and save electric power every way you can!

Electricity is vital to the war effort—please use it carefully

Gov. Bricker's Common Ground

THE Republican party has been given a common ground for examining all its potential presidential candidates in Gov. Bricker's address in Washington Thursday night.

Gov. Bricker is a candidate. He believes President Roosevelt's long tenure of office should be terminated next November. He believes the country needs a change of administration and a change of administrative philosophy. He thinks the Republican party can give it what it needs.

Gov. Bricker in Ohio has relied on party government. If he were to become chief executive of the nation, he would still rely on party government. He would utilize the leadership of his party to its full capacity. If someone else in his party is given the presidential nomination and wins the election, Gov. Bricker still would feel the same way.

He said frankly in Washington that the Republican party contains a number of men who are qualified to become candidates for the presidency, in contrast to the Democratic party, which has only one. Gov. Bricker, as an avowed candidate, will be just as active in their support, if one of them gets the nomination, as he believes they should be in his support if he gets it.

There has been a great deal of loose talk lately, most of it from Democratic sources, about Republican disunity. There is no disunity at the presidential level in the opposition party, because there is only one Democrat who can express an opinion at that level. Gov. Bricker has pointed out to members of his own party that they have an opportunity to choose from the field. He has reminded them that it is the strength of the party that matters more than the power or prestige of any man within the party.

His breadth of vision will increase his own prestige.

The A.G.'s Friend

ADMIRAL CHESTER W. NIMITZ, U. S. commander in the central Pacific, has won the embroidered doily which armchair generals bestow on men of action who back up their remote control guessing. His declaration that naval strategy in the area under his command is to move west to China where Allied bases for Japan's defeat will be set up is a ringing confirmation of armchair guesswork.

There simply was no other way to do it, from the armchairs. Japan could not be attacked without land bases, preferably at both extremities of the island empire's home base—the classic pincers design. The bases would have to be established by Pacific action. That much was clear to the armchair generals. And now they can go ahead with their guesswork. There is still plenty of room.

Establishing a base on the coast of the East China sea will entail overland action from Burma to catch the Japanese from the rear, somewhere in the neighborhood of Shanghai. It will entail subduing the Philippines, or bypassing them and Japan's East Indian empire, though perhaps that is something for Gen. MacArthur to worry about. At the same time, the Manchurian base, another project entirely, would entail the cooperation of Russia and, ultimately, occupation of Korea—all of which is crystal clear to a very armchair general and will be backed up in time, no doubt, by other men of action as anxious to please as Admiral Nimitz has proved to be.

Fourth of a Loaf

REPORTS of presidential uncertainty over what to do with the $2,315,200,000 tax bill awaiting signature sound more political than financial.

It may be that congress should have passed a bill to provide a larger net increase in federal revenue: it does not follow that it should have passed the measure proposed by the administration.

It may be that congress should have gone past the administration's recommendations for revenue and passed a bill bearing even higher imposts: it does not follow that the bill it did pass is worthless.

Mr. Roosevelt could help restore public faith in his administration's financial logic if he signed the pending legislation and accompanied it with a frank statement of his views on future tax policies.

Specifically, he should declare himself on the source of revenue needed to produce the volume of federal income he says he wants—a federal sales tax. At any time during the last two years, if he had chosen to take congress off the spot by approving the sales tax principle, the wartime tax issue could have been resolved.

While he continues to blame congress for what it does not do and to leave it in a spot where the last remaining thing it could do would give its members a black eye with Mr. Roosevelt's political backers, the congressional-presidential relationship is more political than financial.

The fourth of a loaf being offered is vastly to be preferred under any circumstances to the no loaf at all which would be the consequence of a presidential veto of the pending tax bill.

News Behind the News

Problems at New Beachhead in Italy Seen As Test for Invasion of Europe.

By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11—The criticism has been made that General Mark Clark should have sent off an armored column to hack its way through the German rear soon after landing on the Nettuno-Anzio beachhead three weeks ago. Maybe so. Here is what happened:

The American war strategy since Egypt has called without deviation for long, careful amassing of overwhelming power before attack. This is in contrast with the Nazi strategy of quick opening thrusts and war of daring fluid maneuver in the rear. Our system was adopted because we have the greatest production of war power in all the world.

Consequently, we sat down after the landing south of Rome and awaited the arrival of more power. For four days no opposition appeared. Then the Germans withdrew reserves from their main battle front, sent forward a few divisions from Rome and elements of several divisions from the Appenine reserve line in the north.

Weather Handicap

Artillery was finally established in the hills which shot all the way across our beachhead and even into the port of Anzio. A spell of bad weather prevented our shipment of supplies from functioning fully, delaying debarkations.

All during the three weeks our air superiority functioned except in the five or six days of bad weather. About 1,500 plane sorties (single plane attacks) were launched against the German long-range artillery emplacements in the hills on a single day, last Tuesday.

The only attack we made was at the northeastern corner of the line toward the village of Cisterna. There Mussolini's ghost haunted us in a strange way. He had drained the marshes some years back and built a series of concrete farm settlements which served the Nazis as excellent ready-made pill boxes. Our attack there was not successful.

Preview of Big Push

Final deductions on our strategy will await the outcome of the tremendous Nazi effort now being launched, but it is evident that this experience in a beachhead will be the guiding factor in the war henceforth. The coming invasion of Europe will not only face similar circumstances, but also will the promised invasion of China (Admiral Nimitz, Wednesday).

Obviously, General Eisenhower is amassing great superior power for the main Europe effort. Many guesses are being made as to when the blow will fall, but certainly it should come before the end of June.

My guess is not based on any information, but wholly upon a reasonable time needed yet for the accumulation of power. If this guess is true, it is possible to anticipate a final result in Europe before Sept. 1 if the attack is successful, or a much longer indefinite period of warfare if the experience of Rome is repeated too closely.

Long-Range View

Admiral Nimitz was merely indulging himself in long-range optimism. The establishment of beachheads on the Chinese coast (from which to crush Jap armies and finally to attack Japan) is a long way off, as many Jap naval bases intervene the points we now occupy. These must be eliminated or neutralized before a safe sea lane of supplies can be guaranteed our landing force.

The outcome in the war of the Pacific must await these developments, as it is practically impossible for us to get sufficient power in to the Chinese through land roads—that is, sufficient power for them to finish the job. Even if the Burma road is recaptured, we will need beachheads in China.

The experience in the Marshalls certainly seems a justification of our strategy, even if the Rome experience did not. There we waited until we had amassed overwhelming fighter strength. The force of this power brilliantly ran over the Japs with little loss of life.

Throw in the Dough!

From "International Teamster"

ONCE again, Uncle Sam is asking us to spare a dime. The Fourth War Loan is in progress to finance the huge cost of invading the continent of Europe and invading, perhaps, the islands of Japan.

The cost of such huge undertakings is terrific. The mind cannot grasp the astronomical figures involved.

But the mind can't grasp the lives involved. We know that hundreds, maybe thousands, of the 105,000 Teamsters now in the armed forces will die on the invasion beaches of Europe and Asia.

We also know that more of them will die if they lack the proper weapons and the equipment to support them when they land.

The money we lend the government in the Fourth War Loan will provide the weapons and equipment. It will guarantee that every American has a chance for his life when he lands in enemy territory. He will have a chance to kill a Jap or German before they kill him. He will have a chance to come home again and slide behind the wheel of his truck when the war has finally ended.

To give a fighting Teamster that chance, no working Teamster will hesitate.

Such support of our fighting men is the least anyone can contribute. In fact, it is not a contribution at all. It is a loan. The government pays you back four dollars for every three dollars you invest in War Bonds.

That money you have laid away may look pretty good to you in the uncertain days after the war when industry is readjusting itself to peacetime production.

You, personally, gain in two ways when you buy War Bonds. You get a bonus on your money and you lay away something for an emergency.

But the important thing you gain is the added assurance that victory will come. Victory will protect every advantage you have in living under a form of government like this.

The more money the government spends now in the final attack, the quicker peace will come and the lower our casualties will be.

There is only one place for the government to get that money and that is from the pockets of its citizens.

Victory is cheap if it takes nothing but your money.

Uncle Sam is getting ready to thrown down his blue chips. The sky is the limit from here on in. The winner takes all and the loser will be lucky to come out with his shirt.

Throw in your dough, brother, this may be the last hand!

Under Nazis' Noses

By The Associated Press

LONDON—Among the underground publications circulating through occupied Poland is a new one, "Culture of Tomorrow," a literary monthly with a lot of nerve.

Under the Nazis' noses it recently conducted a contest for the best poem on Warsaw and so many contributions poured in through secret channels that it decided to give two prizes instead of one.

First prize went to the writer of "Psalm," who vividly pictured slaughter in the Ghetto. The underground jury singled out for mention another poem written on the eve of death by a young Jewess. As she was being led away by the Nazis she threw it at hazard into the crowd, where it found its way to the judges.

CAMP VAN DORN, Miss.—That "dilla-dolla-dilla-dolla" part of the tobacco auctioneer's chant is meaningless "fill-in" and comes from the attempt of one auctioneer to disparage a small bid, says Private David K. Bethea, in civilian life general manager and an auctioneer for a tobacco company in Mullins, N. C.

This unknown auctioneer, he reports, chanted "Hey—one dollar, little dollar, little dollar." Later auctioneers copied the chant and slurred the words into meaningless jumbo to kill time between bids.

Hitler in Cage

By The Associated Press

HATTIESBURG, Miss.—When the daily Hattiesburg American offered a $25 war bond for the best suggestion for punishment of Adolf Hitler after the war, it was not prepared for the deluge. More than 300 letters arrived in a single mail. Replies came, over a three-week period, from 36 states and six Canadian provinces.

Only three suggestions in the many hundreds received were too suggestive or profane to be published.

A large percentage of the writers wanted Hitler caged and exhibited all over the world, the admission charges to be devoted to payment of national debts or charity.

DEAD LETTER DEPARTMENT

Stretching the Nation's Rubber Supply

Crisis Will Be Reached in 1944

EARLY in the third year after Pearl Harbor, the rubber shortage which Japan hoped to create by its seizure of initiative in the Pacific, is acute.

The Japanese strategy is working. The United States has been cut off from the source of one of its most essential commodities. Substitutes are being developed as rapidly as possible, but are not available in sufficient quantity or quality to do the job.

The nation's stockpile of crude rubber, which must be held at a 100,000 ton level for security reasons, is approaching that minimum.

Production of rubber goods has been slowed down by use of synthetics, which do not behave like ordinary rubber in manufacturing processes.

Military demands for rubber are exceeding estimates. For example, production of heavy bombers has been stepped up, which means that the huge tires required for their operation are in urgent demand. These tires, each requiring about 30 times as much rubber as an automobile tire, must be replaced every 30 days while the planes are in operation.

Demands for truck tires are urgent, to keep the nation's transportation system from breaking down. But it is exactly in this category of tire production that substitution of synthetics for natural rubber has been least successful. Rubber engineers still have found no way to make a satisfactory heavy duty tire out of synthetics, without a large part of natural rubber.

Aside from the extremely heavy military demands, the nation could use 80,000,000 tires in 1944, but production will be only a fraction of that. Original schedules called for 30,000,000, but that total has been scaled down, perhaps to as few as 20,000,000. The shortage will have to be dealt with by new rationing methods.

NON-ESSENTIAL drivers, except for recapped tires, will be able to look forward to nothing until synthetics catch up to war and civilian needs. In some cases, holders of B and C cards will be unable to obtain tires even after certification.

The aim is to keep the most essential traffic moving within the limits of the rubber supplies available.

The 1944 rubber crisis, though freely predicted as soon as the significance of Japan's aggression in the Pacific dawned on the United States, comes as a surprise.

Preoccupation with the tremendous program and amazing success of the project to furnish synthetics had diverted attention from the showdown which finally would come when it was time for the changeover — the critical moment when natural rubber already in use or awaiting use would disappear and its place would have to be taken by synthetics.

The public quit worrying about rubber. It quit worrying about tires, except as emergencies arose. It was told that early in 1944 there would be a period of touch-and-go, but it was not aware of the fact that the period was already at hand.

The office of the national rubber director, Col. Bradley Dewey, blames the situation primarily on skyrocketing military demands. The office also concedes cautiously that all is not what it might be within the synthetic program.

MAKING rubber from petroleum has proved unexpectedly difficult. Col. Bradley expects the synthetics quota for the first quarter of 1944 to be met and his office points with pardonable pride to the way Buna-S production is keeping pace with capacity for tire-making. The question is whether this relationship can be maintained in the months ahead, as the latter capacity increases. Even if it does, the civilian car owner will not benefit. Military demands will be satisfied first, and they apparently are insatiable.

Chester Bowles, OPA chief, has explained that hereafter the purpose for which a person drives, rather than the distance he drives, will determine eligibility for passenger car tires under rationing procedure.

"About 1,500,000 used passenger tires are left for rationing," Mr. Bowles explained. "Since tires of this type have recently been rationed at the rate of about 850,000 a month, it is no longer possible to continue the old program and still keep essential cars in operation."

As the year progresses, productivity of the synthetic rubber plants, of high-tenacity rayon yarn plants and of manpower and facilities may brighten the rubber prospect. Things may improve suddenly because of Germany's defeat in the war, but rubber planning cannot proceed on possibilities.

The fact is there isn't enough rubber available to do what needs to be done. Therefore, first things will have to be put first. Tires already in existence will have to be made to last indefinitely — or until something happens to make them replaceable.

Wrong Dope

We Have Gummed Up Odds on Our Personal Presidential Choice by Tipping Our Hand Too Early.

By DAMON RUNYON

MY friend "The Seldom Seen Kid" is in a similar deplorable plight.

Seldom is a handicapper of horse races. Lately he has been going great guns. He has been picking 'em like Jerry wrote it. Four and five winners at Hialeah and the Fair Grounds every day. His figures have been standing up like the quills on a sore porcupine's back.

The other night Seldom was in his room doping for the next day. He compiled a set of figures on the races at the two tracks, indicating his judgment of the probable winners, but he was dissatisfied with his work because a late prediction called for rain in both places.

So he put his first figures aside and compiled a new set for a muddy track and, just as he finished them, a masked man entered the room, stuck the muzzle of a betsy in Seldom's side and said.

"This is a stickup. But don't be alarmed. All I want is your figures."

Seldom pointed to the sheet he had just finished and the gonnif stuck it in his pocket and vanished. Next day it was dry as the W. C. T. U. at both tracks and Seldom's first figures swept the cards. Nary a nag in the put-up set reached the home plate.

Now Seldom is hiding out for fear the stick-up guy is fretful about being swindled and may come around and blow his pimple off his shoulders, and that brings me to my own predicament.

NOT long ago I received a request from Gwynne Nettler of the school of ... of Stanford university for my dope on 13 questions, as follows:

When will Germany surrender?

When will Japan surrender?

Will Japan attack the U. S. S. R. before surrendering"

Will the U. S. S. R. allow us to use naval bases in Siberia?

Will the U. S. S. R. attack Japan"

Who will be the Republican candidate for the presidency in 1944?

Who will be the Democratic candidate for the presidency in 1944?

Who will be elected president of the U. S. in 1944?

Will there be a depression after this war?

Will there be a World war III?

"Despite the dearth of predicative enterprise most of us have indulged at least privately in prophecies," said Mr. Nettler. "We are interested in determining the nature of these predictions and for this purpose have inclosed a questionnaire which we would greatly appreciate your answering."

NATURALLY, I immediately sat down and drew up my dope on the questions to send to Mr. Nettler at my regular fee for prophecy, and then it suddenly struck me as silly to give Mr. Nettler my info on who will be elected president of the U. S. A. in 1944 because for all I know to the contrary, Mr. N. might be sending it in on my guy and ruin the price for me before I can get down myself.

So I made a new copy of my dope, with a wrong answer to that particular question and told my wife to mail that copy but through some error she sent the original and now I am waiting in fear and trembling lest my guy open at about 1 to 100.

Valentines

By Truman Twill

As to Valentines, now coming into style again, there was a lot to be said for them the way they used to be handled.

But then school teachers had to nib in, and with due respect to you, ladies, you certainly crabbed the act. You left about as much sentiment in Valentines as there is in Christmas cards.

Because instead of letting a kid pick out a favorite bit of fluffy-ruffles, buy her the lace job retailing at 45 cents the copy and let the rest of the little girls sweat it out, now every little scholar must send a Valentine to every kid in the room, catch-as-catch-can.

You send them to kids you wouldn't be caught playing tag with on a dark night. You send them to little girls who couldn't rate a two-for-a-nickel Valentine on their own if they were the sole survivors of a shipwreck on a Pacific isle with a dozen healthy sailors. You even send them to your worst enemy, the skunk who ... to get the comic editions.

And what happens is what always happens when the do-gooders and friendly Joes try to even up the score and engineer the switch from rugged individualism to good will to all and a kiss for Cinderella. You send everybody the same dumb-cluck little Valentines, the cheap ones you can pick up at a bargain, not overlooking the ones you salvaged from last year's with a gum eraser. You cheat the occasion.

They've taken the whing and the zip out of Valentine day—and this is to tell them so. They've ruined the occasion wherever they pretend that putting on the honey isn't a real personal thing, not to be confused with handing all around like the old man at a Rotary club luncheon.

When you ask a lady to be your Valentine, you're not playing fish pond at a church bazaar. You're in there looking out for No. 1 in the old-fashioned way. And you are in no mood to settle for the little brat in the outside row, the one whose mother thinks you're ticketed for the reform school and doesn't want any part of you and your attentions to her daughter. You are not casting preferential ballots—you're out for all or nothing.

A lot of history was made with Valentines in the days when they were used for some purpose higher than the golly-woggle intentions of confused people who didn't want anyone's feelings to get hurt and therefore insisted on dividing the tenderest emotion there is, share and share alike. A lot of lovely history.

Wasn't there, Mrs. Twill?

So They Say—

Our primary concern, simply stated, is to make the coming invasion of Germany as economical as possible by drastically reducing the war potential of the Third Reich and its satellites.—Air Forces Gen. Henry A. Arnold.

The harder we work, the more we put into our jobs, the more chance we have of knocking out the enemy quickly—the more chance we have of keeping our casualties low.—OWI Director Elmer Davis.

Probably nothing would be more helpful to the nation's plans for coping with its post-war problems than a modification and simplification of existing tax laws.—Livingston W. Houston, president Rensselaer Polytechnic institute.

Some weeks ago when we knocked off some of their invincible cruisers and destroyers, survivors were picked up and glad to get out. Usually the Japanese want to die for the great son of whatever he is. — Adm. W. F. Halsey Jr.

CALLING ALL STAMP ALBUMS TO JOIN THE 4TH WAR LOAN

SAT. and MON. FEB. 12-14

MARION SCHOOL CHILDREN ARE BACKING THE ATTACK TO PUT THE 'E' BOND QUOTA OVER THE TOP

Once again, the children of our community have rallied 'round the flag by enlisting to put the 4th War Loan over the top. Prepare to welcome them in your home, and get ready to participate in the nationwide Treasure Hunt aimed at unearthing the "hidden treasure" of unfilled Stamp Albums which have accumulated in desk drawers and old purses; in last season's suit pockets, and which are just carried around day after day but never completed!

The Treasure Hunt has been planned to help you convert those Stamp Albums into ammunition—or other weapons of war—by turning them into War Bonds on the 12th and 14th of this history-making month of February! It's amazing to realize that Uncle Sam's bookkeeping shows that about 2½ billions of dollars can be raised to help win the war just by bringing those idle Stamp Albums to life!

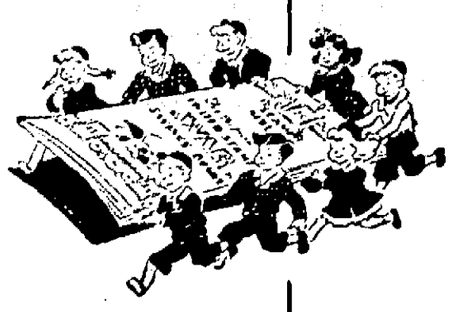

That's a huge sum of money—a sum which can shorten the war by many hours, and bring your loved ones home sooner from the fighting front . . . maybe save their very lives. If you have an unfilled Stamp Album, part of that money is in your hands, giving you the power to play an active part in Victory! Join the Treasure Hunt now, and be ready when the school children appointed to your home ring the bell!

LETS ALL BACK THE ATTACK

The "Treasure Hunt" house to house canvass will be conducted Saturday and Monday by the fifth and sixth grade pupils in each elementary school district.

The "Treasure Hunters" will have mimeographed forms which you may fill out—indicating that you have a stamp album to convert or your desire to buy a bond. For this "find" the pupil will be given a red tag to wear showing that he has found "treasure."

Your application will then be turned over to specially trained junior high school students who will call on you, fill out an official bond purchase order and complete the transaction.

The single ring ceremony was read by Rev. E. E. Prescott, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal church at 12:30, before an improvised altar of ferns and two tall pedestal baskets filled with pink and white snapdragons, in the presence of the immediate families. They were unattended.

Mrs. Elma Downs presided at the piano for a program of nuptial music. Preceding the ceremony she played "The Sweetest Story Ever Told"—Stultz, "Ah Sweet Mystery of Life"—Herbert and "Liebestraum"—Liszt. Mrs. Marjorie Carpenter sister of the bride sang "Ave Maria" Schubert, "At Dawning" — Cadman and "The Belles of St. Mary"—Adams.

The bride's mother was attired in a two piece brown crepe dress with matching accessories and the bridegroom's mother was costumed in a navy blue dress. Both wore pansy corsages.

Following the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Sellars were hosts at a wedding dinner. The table was centered with a three-tiered cake topped with a miniature bride and groom. Crystal candelabra holding lighted tapers were placed at each end of the table.

Five Planks on Platform

His five-plank platform recommended:

1. Return to "balanced budget" federal financing.

2. Establishment of "responsible cabinet government" by eliminating "czars" and superimposed agencies.

3. Simplified tax laws that remain stable so drawn as to encourage "venture capital" and expanding business; lower federal taxes "as soon as possible" after the war ends.

4. Assurances that state and local governments have autoomy" "not a mere sham and pretense financially dependent upon Washington."

5. A clear-cut government labor policy defined by a "fair" law and "just enforcement" of that law, including a prohibition on wartime strikes.

The Roosevelt administration "is the American counterpart of the sweep of absolutism which has destroyed so much liberty around the world . . . it lacks faith in our people . . . it assumes that people cannot take care of themselves," said Bricker.

"The time has now come," he said, "to take the policymaking power of government out of the hands of the arrogant bureaucrats and return it to the hands of the elected representatives of the people."

Bricker said he was confident the Republicans will win the 1944 election and added he was "more interested" in that—defeating the New Deal philosophy—than in being president.

Slogan of All U. S.

"Winning the war is not a partisan opportunity," the governor said, and "win the war" became the "watchword of every patriotic American" the day of the Pearl Harbor attack.

Beyond the winning of the war, Bricker said "the paramount task is to restore order and sanity in our fiscal affairs and our system of taxation."

Deficit financing, he said, is fallacious and will some day bring the nation to a point where "private enterprise will be unable to keep labor fully employed," government will be unable to borrow from business already too highly taxed and "national bankruptcy" will result. He decried the "owe it to ourselves" theory which he said was the main defense of such financing and said it would result in "steady transfer of ownership of our wealth" from private hands to the government.

In time, Bricker said, this will mean that the wealth will be held entirely by the government "or, in other words in common...this is socialism, if not communism." He said:

"A balanced federal budget will create more jobs than all the projects government can advise. "Nothing would encourage the American people more than to send back into productive industry or into the Army and Navy the hundreds of thousands of unnecessary federal employes . . ."

Bricker praised labor as "loyal" and with management responsible for "one of the brightest pages" in the nation's history. But, he said, "no group or union should be permitted to strike" in wartime.

"Labor is irreparably injured in the eyes of the public and these strikes will cause our soldiers to return with a distorted opinion of the loyalty of labor . . . This is a problem of government . . . A law should be enacted by this Congress laying down fundamental principles for the administration and adjudication of labor disputes and the prohibition of strikes in the time of war. The recently suggested national service act is no answer to this problem at this late date. The strike problem can be solved by fair legislation and by just enforcement of the law."

Says Troops Demand Action

"The boys at the battle front are demanding such action. The fathers and mothers of these boys are demanding it and that demand will be expressed in the election this year. Such action instead of destroying rights of labor, will preserve them.

"The time has come to support the millions of workers who want to work and to quit coddling the selfish labor leaders for the sake of the votes which they say they can deliver in an election. If politics and votes had been forgotten by this administration, we never would have had the distressing confusion which has confronted us in this field."

Lincoln, Governor Bricker said, believed that our constitutional principles were adequate in time of great crisis.

"He proved that representative government could wage war and emerge free. The question confronting every citizen and every legislative leader may be simply stated: Shall government direct the lives of our people, or shall it create conditions which will enable them individually and hopefully to find their own way? Shall we continue our march toward absolutism, or shall we preserve the free atmosphere which our people have breathed since our country was founded?

"I offer you no utopian picture of ease, with abundant money for all raised by borrowing from ourselves," Bricker said. "The task is a difficult one, but courage, hard work and a great faith will carry us through."

His lone reference to the postwar international situation came in connection with an assertion that "continuing New Deal fiscal policies will have an adverse effect on U. S. participation in world affairs.

"The United States should take her place in a co-operative organization among sovereign nations after this war. We want no super government, no central world authority over us. An international co-operative organization whatever precise form it may take can solve the problems which lead to war and fulfill the hopes of our people for a peaceful and better world."

Mrs. Bricker Avoids Prediction on Her Rule Over White House

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11—Mrs. John W. Bricker, third-term mistress of the Ohio governor's mansion whose husband aspires to the Republican presidential nomination, said yesterday it would be "foolish to predict how she might fill the role of first lady.

"I don't know what the requirements would be as first lady," she asserted. "I don't think anyone can say what she would do in a given situation until she's there. Wait until after the nomination and election, then ask me."

At her first press conference in the capital, Mrs. Bricker said she admires President Roosevelt's wife for her "ability and personality." She remarked also that she enjoys travel but has never been the vigorous campaigning type."

"My campaigning is incidental, although I hope it adds up," she said.

Mrs. Bricker answered questions at a predominantly feminine press conference after the governor concluded a session with newsmen.

Has Own Political Views

The Republican aspirant's wife claimed "a sphere of my own" in political convictions which seldom touches issues on which her husband comments. She declined to comment on the question of subsidies, although admitting the problem was of concern to a housewife.

As for national service legislation, she said she did not think "that has been proven necessary."

"Government should be kept responsible to the will of the people and be kept in the hands of the representatives of the people," Mrs. Bricker said. "Read my husband's speech about that. I feel the same way — that as much control as possible should be kept within the state."

Mrs. Bricker side-stepped comment on a reporter's remark that when the Democrats were out of office they screamed about state's rights and now the Republicans seemed to be doing the same.

In postwar settlements and policies, Mrs. Bricker said she believes the role of women should be "interest, understanding and faith that it will be a better world tomorrow than today."

Asked her opinion of a proposed equal rights for women amendment Mrs. Bricker replied she was not familiar with the bill but she thought "women have proved themselves well able to hold their own."

If she were first lady, newspaperwomen asked Mrs. Bricker, would she hold press conferences as instituted by Mrs. Roosevelt.

"If I thought they would be helpful or there was ... the governor's wife replied "I'd be glad to."

Once Visited White House

Mrs. Bricker, who said she was a "next-door" White House visitor some 15 years ago when she was in awe of the place, told reporters this "press conference business" was a new experience for her.

Like Mrs. Roosevelt, however, she greeted each reporter personally. Unlike Mrs. Roosevelt, she said she placed "no restrictions" on admitting men to the conference.

"Women who have the best and ability certainly should take more interest in politics," Mrs. Bricker replied to a query on how she felt about women in politics.

As wife of the governor of Ohio, Mrs. Bricker said, "my job is sponsorships of welfare drives, educational group and hospital work. She is wartime chairman of the county nurses' aid committee, and also has worked in the blood donor drive.

Dressed in a tailored black suit, white blouse, medium-heeled, open-toed black pumps and wearing pearl earrings beneath softly waved and pinned back light brown hair, Mrs. Bricker said though she had arrived in Washington at 6:30 a. m., she felt as though she'd been here "three days already."

Reminded of a luncheon engagement and a fully scheduled afternoon, she refused to cut short the press conference which lasted about 20 minutes.

Mrs. Bricker said she accompanies her husband on political trips whenever possible and sometimes makes appearances for him when he can't accept all invitations.

Since her husband has been in politics all of their married life, almost 24 years, Mrs. Bricker said her interest in politics dates back that far.

The Brickers have a 13-year-old son, John Day Bricker.

OHIOAN IS DECORATED FOR BRAVERY IN BATTLE

Wins Silver Star for Protecting Troops.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 11—His infantry squad threatened by an enemy flanking maneuver, Pfc. Willard L. Carter of Latty, O., voluntarily left his protected position, crawled through a curtain of German fire, took up a post behind the body of a dead Nazi trooper and broke up the movement.

For that feat, he has been awarded the Silver Star, the war department announced today.

Private Carter, son of Mrs. Eithel Carter of Latty, was with a unit of the Third division defending against a German counterattack in the Mediterranean theater, when he saw an enemy machine gun being moved into a position from which it could cover the American flank with heavy fire.

Out of position to fire from his covered position, he crawled into the open. Enemy bullets plowed the ground inches from his body. Reaching the protection of the fallen German's body, he killed the enemy machine gunner before he could put the weapon in operation, and continued to thwart all attempts to concentrate fire on his squadron from the flank.

MARION DAY NURSERY MOVIE HAS PREMIER

Shown at Party; To Be Shown Throughout State.

A valentine party yesterday at the day nursery for the care of children of working mothers marked the premier of a motion picture showing the activities of the nursery.

The film was to be turned over to the state department of welfare by County School Superintendent D. T. Mills at a meeting of the state day nursery committee in Columbus today. Mr. Mills, a member of the state day nursery committee which is made up of 25 persons from the state, filmed the picture, which will be used in publicizing day nurseries especially in war defense areas. Dr. Margaret Hempel, professor of education at Ohio State university, is chairman of the publicity committee. The picture was filmed under the supervision of the welfare department.

Parents of the children and members of the day nursery committee attended the party and picture premier. Seventeen of the 25 children on the active nursery roll were present. The party was arranged by the nursery staff headed by Mrs. D. T. Mills, nursery supervisor.

"Our governor put on the charm, and most people liked him," said Representative George H. Bender of Cleveland. "He surely handles himself well."

Bender and Representative Robert Jones said Governor Bricker surprised news men with his ability to answer quickly questions on many subjects at a press conference two hours after his arrival in the capital.

Republican diners cheered Bricker's assertion that victory in war is not a partisan opportunity.

Bricker supporters registered complete satisfaction as he ended the speech which highlighted his first public appearance as a presidential candidate. He himself said he was amazed at the welcome he received from Democrats and Republicans alike.

The governor suggested that the warm greetings of campaign foes contradicted any idea that politics is out of line with Americanism, for he said, "partisan campaigns are as American as ham and eggs."

Spends Busy Day

Radio listeners heard Bricker at his best despite a busy day that started with his arrival before most Washingtonians were up. He met reporters for a news conference at 10:30, held a two-hour reception at the capitol, and listened to oratory at the Lincoln day dinner, preliminary to his own speech.

The governor was applauded for praising the conduct of the war and pledging continuance of an all out fight if he becomes president.

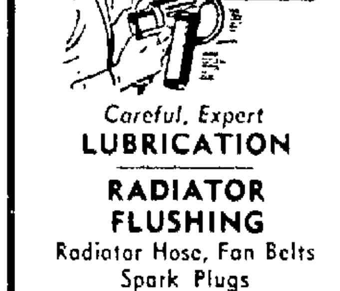

"That is true," he said frankly when asked if he thought President Roosevelt deserved credit for American successes.

"But it is time for a change." "I live," Bricker said, "with the people who feel the impact of an expanding system of government in their daily lives and I know their reactions to it. I believe that the safest program for our country lies not in titful movements of reform and reaction but in steady progress through adherence to our representative system of government."

[illegible] The stamp [illegible] Here Tree are [illegible] stamp books [illegible] War Loan."

[illegible] plans for the [illegible] Gabler, in charge of [illegible] War Loan activities in [illegible] from Harding High school. He had been informed by War Finance officials that there are an estimated [illegible] stamp books in the United States. A house-to-house canvass was decided as the only means of finding an impressive call [illegible] to be filled and turned into a unit, and it was also decided that school pupils could handle the job better than anyone else.

One important phase of the "treasure hunt" is that any bond bought by a pupil or for a pupil and not counted on another organization quota may be counted to the school's quota.

Although plans for the treasure hunt were left to the individual pupils, it was expected that fifth and sixth grade pupils will do most of the canvassing for the elementary school.

The "treasure hunt" has a timely objective—to buy as many invasion craft as possible. The landing craft cost $12,000 each, and pupils are ready to do everything possible to buy as many as possible before the Fourth War Loan ends, Mr. Gabler said.

School Drive Off To Flying Start

The Marion city schools did a bang-up job on the first day of their bond selling drive yesterday, turning in a total of $13,473.75, more than enough to buy one of the $12,000 invasion barges that school boys and girls want to purchase for the war effort.

A checkup this morning showed yesterday's sales, plus purchases made at other points but credited to the schools, made the $13,473.75 total.

The sale among pupils and teachers was to continue today, and beginning tomorrow the schools will expand their drive by canvassing the city to ask non-school families to buy extra bonds and fill stamp books. Details of this campaign are announced elsewhere in tonight's Star.

Yesterday's figures by schools follow:

Forest Lawn, $375; George Washington, $1,006.25; Glenwood, $187.50; Greenwood, $1,312.50; Mark, $637.50; North Main, $131.25; Oak, $290; Oakland, $806.25; Olney, $506.25; Pearl, $1,987.50; Silver, $93.75; Central Junior, $2,006.25; Edison Junior, $1,433.75; Vernon Junior, $2,700.

"E" Bonds at 87 Per Cent of Goal

Special sales activities helped swell Marion county's "E" Bond total by a margin of $47,665 yesterday, bringing the county up to 87 per cent of its $819,000 "E" bond goal.

LaRue sent in a sizeable amount yesterday, but it was believed most of the $11,000 sold in last night's bond auction was yet to be cleared through the banks.

Caledonia made a substantial contribution to yesterday's figures with $17,012.50 in E bonds included in a total report of $57,112.50 for the day. Caledonia previously had turned in $9,475.

With the school drive now under way already contributing to the E total, leaders were hopeful that the "E" total would reach its goal by the middle of next week.

Yesterday's sales of all denominations amounted to $199,503.55, giving the county a new grand total of $3,592,956.80, well beyond the $2,833,000 total goal.

Auction Sends LaRue Over Top

LaRue community went smashing over the top of its Fourth War Loan quota by a substantial margin last night when a bond auction arranged as the final feature of the LaRue Community Institute poured $41,000 into the war bond hopper.

It was an enthusiastic crowd that braved a wintry night to assemble at the LaRue school auditorium to hear a program of talks and to bid in war bonds for a variety of items, mostly foodstuffs.

There were many cakes from the ovens of housewives in and near LaRue, and one of these brought the top price of the night —$1,500. Five pounds of sugar brought forth lively bidding and finally went for $1,200.

Variety of Offerings

Live roosters, dressed poultry, butter, fruits canned vegetables, eggs, candy, a table cover and various other items went on the auction block with Auctioneer Lewis M. Wickersham teasing the crowd for higher bids.

Although final returns from other Marion county communities are not yet in, LaRue is believed to be the first community in the county outside of Marion city to reach its Fourth War Loan goal.

Robert E. White, county drive chairman, said LaRue had reported $38,891.75 in sales prior to yesterday, and that last night's auction boosted the total well above the $65,000 LaRue area quota.

Mr. White spoke briefly to the group last night. Other Marion residents present included Chester C. Roberts, head of the industrial phase of the drive, and Harold J. Grigsby, county payroll savings chairman.

Three Talks Given

Three speakers were on last night's program. One was Flight Lieut. Fred Collins, a Royal Air Force representative now at the AAF Specialized Storage Depot at the Scioto Ordnance Plant, who told of life in England, mentioning the strict rationing system necessary there and adding that war bond drives similar to those in this country were staged in England.

Paul E. Rizor, Mt. Victory man discharged from service because of wounds suffered in North Africa, told of some of the action he saw in five major battles in Tunisia.

Mrs. Ralph Glass of LaRue, a native of South America who recently became the bride of a LaRue soldier she had met in South America, told of life in Netherlands Guiana.

"Buddy Bond" Sale Total Increasing

Sale of bonds in the "Back Your Buddy" campaign continued to mount when Wednesday's total was reported to be 232, an increase of 65 over the previous day. The goal of the campaign, under the supervision of the Women's Division of Marion county war finance committee, is to have a blue star placed before the name of each person from Marion county now in service.

Wednesday's total includes 210 sales made at the Victory House and 22 registered by factory workers at Marion banks.

Old Fort Mills Far Beyond Quota

Old Fort Mills, Inc., which launched its Fourth War Loan activities with an employes' rally Feb. 1, turned in a final report to officials yesterday showing 189 per cent of its $2,500 quota raised in a seven-day period.

The report, prepared by E. W. Loy who served as chairman for the drive, shows workers purchased $4,688.75 worth of E bonds, and that $2,381.25 in cash in addition to payroll deductions was handled in the drive. It shows 86 per cent of the workers responded to the Fourth War Loan appeals for extra bonds.

ANOTHER FINN CITY BOMBED

150 Russian Planes Attack Kotka, 70 Miles East of Helsinki.

By The Associated Press

LONDON, Feb. 11—The Finns announced today 150 Russian planes bombed the industrial city of Kotka, 70 miles east of Helsinki on the coast of the gulf of Finland, for two hours last night.

A broadcast communique said anti-aircraft fire kept most of the raiders from the center of the city but acknowledged some damage.

It was the second heavy aerial blow within a week seeking to hasten Finland's exit from the war. The attack upon Kotka, 80 miles across the gulf of Finland from Narva, followed the 200-plane raid on Helsinki Feb. 6.

"The attack lasted two hours," the communique said. "Only a few aircraft succeeded in dropping bombs on the town. Some damage was done to windows of buildings. According to incomplete reports eight civilians were killed and two wounded."

Two raiders were destroyed by anti-aircraft fire, the communique added.

Kotka, one of the centers of Finland's vast saw mill industry, had been bombed several times before the Finnish-Russian front lapsed into comparative inactivity.

Nine Snow Plows Busy; Trains Late

One of the heaviest snows of the winter blanketed Marion county last night, a welcome sight to farmers because of the needs of their fields for moisture, but a troublemaker for motorists and street and highway officials.

The heavy snow sent a fleet of six state highway department plows into action on highways of Marion county last midnight, and about the same time three similar outfits were dispatched by the county engineer's office. All stayed on the job throughout the morning as the snow continued to fall.

At the Union Station, trains were reported considerably later than usual and the delays were blamed on the snow and approaching cold wave. Early morning buses were on time, but delays were expected later in the day.

The city service department sent out crews of workers with shovels to open pedestrian lanes at crossings in the downtown district. Safety-Service Director John V. Ruth said scrapers will be used later to open gutters and prevent accumulations of slush along the curbs. Salt was scattered at intersection approaches and railroad crossing approaches.

Although some drifting was reported, highway workers said late this morning they had not heard of drifts that might make any roads impassable.

Snow Blinds Driver Car Is Ditched

Charles Carnes, 38, of Zanesville was injured last night when a truck he was driving ran off the road and turned over in a ditch along route 23 about three and one-half miles south of Marion. According to a report of state highway patrolmen, who investigated the accident, Carnes was blinded by snow and could not distinguish the edge of the road. He was taken to Marion City hospital by the Groll ambulance from Waldo. Damage to the cab of the truck was extensive, but loss of cargo was not determined this morning pending arrival of the owner of the truck, T. J. Bray of Zanesville.

Three-Car Accident on Snowy Street

Snow streets were partially to blame, police say, for a three-car collision on Pearl street at 10 last night, breaking a four-day absence of accidents reported to police headquarters.

Cars involved last night were driven by James D. Wilson, 17, of 805 Sugar street, D. F. Baker, 17, of 601 East George street, and Forest Disbennet, 34, of 200 Walnut street. Wilson and Baker were driving north, police say, and Disbennet was attempting to park in front of 325 Pearl street, when the accident occurred. All three cars were slightly damaged.

Most of Ohio Covered by Snow

A heavy snow fell over much of Ohio today, prelude to a severe cold wave expected to sweep in from the northwest tonight.

The bulk of the snow seemed to reach across the central and north portion of the state during the morning hours.

It was two inches deep in Columbus at 10 a. m. and falling heavily. Cleveland had four inches during the night with more anticipated during the afternoon. Two inches lay over Akron, where drifts piled up in some places.

Thousands of persons were late for work in Cincinnati because of a transportation jam created by trolley wires snapping under a coat of ice that came in on the heels of an overnight fall of less than a half inch of snow.

The storm, moving ahead of a bitter cold wave that gripped most of the west and north this morning, quenched at least partially one of Ohio's most severe drouths. Winter crops are in bad condition and experts said last week snow or rain must come soon if any harvest is to be had. The snow also will protect crops against the bitter cold expected. The mercury dangled around the twenties in much of the state at mid-morning.

'Wasp Wagon' New, U. S. Weapon, Shows Worth at Salerno

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, O., Feb. 11 — After action in Africa, Sicily and Italy, a 2,000-shot-a-minute, highly mobile anti-aircraft weapon was demonstrated to a civilian audience for the first time here yesterday.

Col. H. M. Reedall, ordnance district chief, said the half-track carrier and its cluster of four .50-caliber Browning machine guns is the first highly mobile anti-aircraft weapon in use. Its guns can be fired while the half-truck is traveling 50 miles an hour, he added.

Dubbed the "Wasp Wagon" by newspapermen because of its "sting and mobility," the weapon is effective up to 3,000 feet against airplanes, and shells travel more than four miles horizontally, Col. Reedall stated. The turret housing the four guns can be turned in all directions and from vertical to 10 degrees below the horizontal, he said. The half-track vehicle for the weapon is produced by the White Motor Co. of Cleveland.

Especially effective against low-flying planes, the "Wasp Wagon" is credited with shooting down 14 German planes during the Salerno engagement in Italy.

Known to Army ordnance as the M-16, this newest anti-aircraft weapon was demonstrated to press, radio and newsreel representatives at a suburban park from where shells were sent screaming over Lake Erie.

FOUR INJURED IN 3-WAY COLLISION

By The Associated Press

PITTSBURGH, Feb. 11—Four persons were injured today in a three-way collision on the Pennsylvania railroad's main line at Pitcairn, 15 miles east of here, the railroad reported.

A fast passenger local hit the rear end of the 12-car New York-St. Louis mail train, which carried no passengers, derailing one car of the local and the engine, tender and first three cars of the mail train.

A short time later a Pittsburgh-New York passenger train sideswiped the derailed cars and its engine and four cars were knocked off the tracks.

A railroad spokesman said the engineer of the third train and three passengers on the local suffered minor injuries.

Three tracks, including a main line, were blocked.

ITALY

so, often erasing the target in a single blast.

Both Flying Fortresses and Liberators joined in yesterday's forays —dropping the deadly missiles on enemy troops at five key points in the highway network around the beachhead area—Albano, Cisterna, Velletri, Campoleone and Cecchina.

Albano, which was heavily bombed, is within a mile and a half of the papal summer palace at Castel Gandolfo where, the Vatican radio said, Vatican property had been hit. Allied spokesmen said allied airmen had strict instructions to avoid damage to the palace.

But despite the fury of the air offensive, in which 850 sorties were flown as against 30 by the enemy, the Germans apparently retained the initiative on the ground and lashed out in many probing attacks around the bridgehead.

Nazis Have 5 Divisions

They continued to add to their containing force and a new division, the 65th, was identified in their line, making five full divisions and a brigade called up to smash the bridgehead.

The German attacks were in the Carroceto (Aprilia) area, where heavy fighting was still in progress, and west and southwest of Cisterna where Americans battled grimly to hold them back.

The Nazis used tanks in these attacks, but it was evident their main effort was yet to come. There were indications the heavy aerial assault may have delayed it.

In Cassina where the Americans made progress with great difficulty, the Germans had turned almost every building into a fortress, and each had to be stormed individually.

The Americans took five of them yesterday after shelling them, crawling into the debris and annihilating the remaining Nazis with grenades, machine-guns and small arms.

Cassino's jail was one of the strongest of these nests.

Besides Albano, Cisterna, Cecchina, Velletri and Campoleone, key points on the highway network into the beachhead area, the allies bombed a road junction and railroad near Monterotondo north of Rome, the road and rail junction at Vicovaro northeast of Rome and Palestrina.

Other planes joined the Fortresses and Liberators in the onslaught, upsetting gun positions, exploding ammunition and fuel dumps, covering freight yards with bombs, strafing emplacements, damaging tanks and scattering death in troop concentrations.

Mitchells attacked a convoy between Leghorn and Civitavecchia.

Reports Nazi Drive Losing Momentum

By HOMER BIGART
New York Herald Tribune correspondent representing the combined American press.
Distributed by The Associated Press

ON THE FIFTH ARMY BEACHHEAD SOUTH OF ROME, Feb. 10—(Delayed)—The German counter-offensive showed signs of having lost momentum tonight after a week of savage fighting in which the enemy regained some high ground and a small town.

(Military censorship did not permit identification of the town in this dispatch. The German high command today said Nazi troops had recaptured the railroad station in Carroceto, also known as Aprilia, 10 miles north of Anzio.)

Heroic resistance stopped the German drive but only after the enemy had captured an important ridge commanding several square miles of the bridgehead. The loss of this high ground admittedly is serious, but enemy attempts to crash across the plain from this springboard were repulsed.

The ridge is crowned by a compact little village which the British seized after hard fighting two weeks ago.

Late yesterday the Germans infiltrated the town and attacked a large factory.

At 6:30 a. m. a sudden crash barrage from hundreds of allied guns screamed down upon the village. It was believed this thunderbolt caught the Germans massing for a new attack.

A few hours later a second crash barrage saturated the area just west of the town where the Germans were attempting to seize an overpass on the main highway.

Frightful casualties discouraged any further aggression.

Victory At Anzio Would Give Axis Propaganda Boost

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst

The fierce struggle for the Anzio-Nettuno beachhead south of Rome looks as though it might become one of the sensational battles of the war—and a bloody one.

It's not great in the sense that it will decide the war, whichever side wins. Its importance lies in no small degree in its moral effect.

The enemy's current effort to liquidate the Anglo-American force in the big beachhead is part and parcel of the delaying, psychological war which Hitler is waging in an effort to gain time. He hopes by this to get some lucky break.

We see the same thing on a monumental scale in the Dnieper bend on the Russian front. There the Nazi all highest has long been risking half a million men in a fantastically dangerous holding operation which is more than half political. He's protecting the gateway to the Balkans to prevent a revolt among his satellites there.

So it is with the Anzio-Nettuno beachhead. Hitler needs a spectacular victory to impress wavering supporters and hand his stricken people a ray of hope. He must persuade friends and foes that Germany is still a mighty power.

Setting Is Perfect

The stage setting is perfect. The allied force is almost at the gates of Rome, after a triumphant amphibious invasion which centered the eyes of the world on the scene. If the fuehrer can smash us, his propagandists can blow the feat up into a victory as high as the Alps.

Official reports say we have been holding our own. However, the position is difficult for us. The Germans, who apparently possess numerical superiority, are on high ground which overlooks the beachhead. They're flinging everything they can get hold of at our men.

Still, we have air superiority—an invaluable asset—and a naval fleet off shore, is backing us up. Officialdom expresses confidence we shall win the day.

One of those whom Hitler is trying to impress with a beachhead victory is little Finland. The Helsinki government is burning midnight oil over Secretary of State Hull's warning that the Finns must quit Hitlerdom or their blood will be on their own heads.

That's a fair and friendly notice. It's not wholly unselfish, to be sure, but it smacks of Auld Lang Syne and certainly is impelled in large degree by the wish to save Finland from herself.

What the Finnish government must recognize is that this is the showdown. Moscow is furious—as witness today's further Red bombing over Finland. Hitler no longer can aid the Finns, and by the same token it's unlikely that his harrassed and retreating army could do them much harm if they deserted him.

Quick Peace Only Help

Only a quick peace with Russia can help Finland—if indeed it isn't too late already. The Finns are unprotected in the path of the Red hurricane. The German withdrawal from Leningrad, clear back into Estonia, has opened the way for a Soviet offensive against Finland.

Red Star, medium of the Russian army, yesterday warned the Finns that the Red forces, not Finnish collaboration with Hitler, would determine Finland's border. That's blunt talk, and the only possible answer must come from Helsinki—it can't come from any of the allies.

The writing on the wall seems to read clearly that the western allies aren't going to break relations with Russia over any territorial questions which thus far have arisen. Washington and London might put in a plea for leniency towards Finland if she were smart and quit now, but they aren't going to war over the issue.

Contract Termination Bill Is Introduced

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11—A war contracts termination bill—intended to give the manufacturer a quick settlement and cash to ease him back into peacetime activities when his war job ends—was introduced today by the heads of two senate committees working on demobilization problems.

"The enactment of this measure," said its authors—Senators George (D-Ga.) and Murray (D-Mont.) "will not only help war production but will also provide a strong foundation for achieving full employment in the post-war period."

The plea was telegraphed [illegible] governor in behalf of R[illegible] Mahoney, an employe [illegible] department of the [illegible] Appliance [illegible] automobile thief, Mahoney [illegible] from the London [illegible] farm in 1933. He was [illegible] Wednesday and returned to the penitentiary after Cleveland police acted on an anonymous [illegible] sent to the prison farm.

Mahoney told police he had been constantly employed since his escape and asserted he would continue to be a law abiding citizen "no matter what happens."

The Parker telegram, signed by Wilbur R. Meredith, personnel director of the firm, said:

"During the present acute shortage of manpower it defies common sense to drag a [illegible] conscientious war worker from his tasks to languish in a [illegible] cell at the taxpayers' expense.

"We ordinary Americans [illegible] penal servitude as a corrective measure to return erring ones to a useful place in society, not to create human derelicts by over-zealous enforcement of the letter of the law.

"We therefore join our employes in requesting you to undertake and institute such measures as are necessary to return Robert W. Mahoney to his family and to work in the war effort at the earliest possible moment."

Top Teams Meet Trailers Tonight

Tonight, the three clubs situated in the first division of the North Central Ohio conference [illegible] will get a first-hand idea of how the other [illegible] the gentle part of basketball, which has been [illegible] 1943-44 N. C. O. engagements.

It'll be Marion Harding's Presidents [illegible] Whippets at Edison Junior High here, Bucyrus [illegible] Galion on the latter's floor, and the Ashland Hilltoppers playing host to the Mt. Vernon Yellow Jackets.

That's a sketchy outline of what N. C. O. fan have in store for them tonight, which promises to be one of those nights when everything comes off as expected in league cage activity. The favorites in the trio of the tilts are, if you haven't already surmised, for yourself, Marion, Bucyrus and Ashland.

But anyone wouldn't be sticking his neck out to predict one upset out of tonight's lot of N. C. O. contests. The upset bug is most likely to strike at Galion Junior High school, where Galion will assume the underdog role in its game with Bucyrus. The Redmen took a 55 to 38 win over Galion in a first round game but have unquestionably slipped down the basketball scale a few notches since.

Harding and Ashland are favorites of the odds-on variety, much more than Bucyrus. The Prexies and Hilltoppers are in a temporary draw for first place and six wins and no setbacks while their opponents tonight carry far inferior records. Shelby, the Presidents' foe is in last place with one win in seven starts while Mt. Vernon is tied for fourth spot with Galion with two victories out of seven games.

Coach Dewey Bohyer of the Harding Presidents indicated that he will send approximately the same five that has started recent N. C. O. tilts into action against Shelby tonight. If that's the case, Fritz Guy at one forward slot, Chuck Fazio at center, and Stew Young and Elvin Beach at the guards should get the starting nod. The other forward position is largely a matter of conjecture with Sophomore Don Shirk and Senior Rex Kilbourn as the principal candidates.

The Whippets are expected to have Connely and Hart at forwards, Herb Poland at center, and Bob Perman and Salvatore DeVito at guards. Perman is Shelby's main threat with his 75 points in seven league games. Two Whippets were lost to Coach Larry Swackhammer last month via the Naval enlistment route. They were veterans Joe Garns and Bob Roberts, both of whom opposed the Prexies in the first Harding-[illegible] Whippet game of the season, won by the [illegible] 31.

Tonight's Harding game, the next to last home appearance of the season for the Prexies, will start at 8 o'clock. No preliminary will be held.

Ashland['s] army of supporters in their battle for the league title with Marion, likely to culminate in a momentous Feb. 25 clash between the two, took on some added meaning after the Hilltoppers 35 to 30 victory over the Mansfield High Tygers Tuesday night. Mansfield had beaten Ashland, 42 to 37, in an early season game. Ted Jacobs led the A's blistering attack against the Tygers with 20 points on eight baskets and four free points. Ashland scored 23 of its markers in the first half.

The A's foe tonight Mt. Vernon, absorbed a 32 to 25 loss from Fredericktown in a Tuesday night game which was witnessed by a crowd of 1,300.

25 TEAMS ENTERED IN CITY TOURNAMENT

[illegible] entries for the annual city bowling tournament to be conducted at the Palace Recreation Center this month rose to approximately 25 yesterday, which [is] 50 short of the minimum expectations of tourney sponsors.

Al Saul, Palace Recreation manager, and co-director of the tourney, reminds local league keglers that entry deadline is Sunday for both five-man teams and individual participants. He pointed out that entries have been coming in at a slow rate in comparison with other years. Two seasons ago, when local bowling enjoyed unprecedented business because of the influx of many war workers to Marion, a record total of over 100 teams vied for tournament prizes on the Palace lanes.

This year's tournament will get under way Saturday, Feb. 19 with the opening singles and doubles session. The team phase of the event has been slated to extend from Feb. 21 to Feb. 25. The singles and doubles will be conducted Saturday and Sunday, Feb. 26 and 27.

Snatches of Sports

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

NEW YORK, Feb. 11—A popular off-season pastime among football coaches seems to be stripping the "T" of some of its glamor. Recently Cornell's Carl Snavely, who found many advantages, including "more fun for the players" in the "T" formation, said he would stick with the single wing because the man in motion could be used to better advantage in it... And Colgate's Andy Kerr who startled the natives both in New York and California by his varied offense in the East-West game, explains he used that game as a sort of football laboratory...."It is my impression," writes Andy, "that the 'T' formation will be a very satisfactory supplementary formation to use. Personally I am not ready to adopt it in toto.".. The next question is, what will Kerr adopt in Hamilton, N. Y....He probably wishes it could be V-5 trainee Otto Graham.

Farmer Jones Wins Feature Mat Bout

Farmer Jones won a two-hour tussle from Buddy Knox in last night's Armory program. Knox took the first fall in seven minutes with back breaker and body press. Jones retaliated by taking Knox to the mat in seven minutes with a body press to win the second fall. Jones tipped the scales in his favor when he brought Knox down again in six minutes with a swinging bear hug.

A 30-minute one-fall bout between Whitey Walberg and Leo Jensen was called a draw when Jensen was injured. Walberg refused the decision and it ended without either man winning a fall.

Gorilla Grubmire and Jackie Nichols fought to a draw in a two-fall semi-final tussle. Grubmire won the first fall in 30 minutes with a body slam and body press. Nichols took the second, bringing Grubmire to terra firma in 18 minutes with a body press.

IOWA NEEDS DOUBLE VICTORY OVER OHIO

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 11—It's a big "if," but if Iowa's undefeated Hawkeyes can hurdle the rangy Buckeyes of Ohio State in the two game series opening here tonight, they're practically a shoo-in for at least a chunk of the Big Ten basketball title.

Currently in sole possession of first place, with seven victories, Messrs. Ives, Danner & Co. face only Purdue and Northwestern in their final league engagements after the Ohio set.

The double date with Northwestern comes March 3 and 4 by which time the Wildcats will have lost virtually their entire team to the Navy and Marines.

Northwestern presently occupies third place with five wins and one loss.

Second place Purdue, beaten only once in eight conference games, is just about the toughest outfit in the league when the chips are down. Should Iowa get by Ohio tonight and tomorrow, Purdue stands in an excellent spot to hand the Hawkeyes their first defeat of the season next Friday at Iowa City.

It would surprise no one, however, if Ohio turned the trick either tonight, tomorrow or both for the Bucks are a formidable crew.

The Bucks need a double victory to stay in the championship running.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 11—Andrew A. Jackson, Marion, O., food market proprietor, today was prohibited from selling meat for the next 15 days and denied the right to sell any processed food until he registers with his local ration board.

Jackson was charged with selling meat above the OPA ceiling price and with failure to register as a food dealer at a hearing before Commissioner Frederick Glover of the office of price administration.

The commissioner said under normal circumstances the sentence would have been more severe, but that allowances were made for the fact that he was under the impression he had already registered.

EXPERT SAYS STAGE SET FOR INFLATION

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11—The potentialities existing for inflation are very great, Dr. George C. Haas, director of the treasury's division of research and statistics, has told the senate appropriations committee.

He told the committee:

"We estimate income payments for the fiscal year 1944 at $148,000,000,000.

"We estimate that individuals will pay direct taxes to both federal, state and local governments of $22,000,000,000.

"That leaves $126,000,000,000 which we call disposable income which people will have to spend on goods and services. . . .

"We estimate that there will be available during the fiscal year 1944 around $90,000,000,000 of goods and services.

"So you have that difference between the purchasing power available for people to spend, if they choose to spend, of $126,000,000,000 and the goods and services at present prices which are available for civilian consumers amounting to $90,000,000,000."

RYE PRICES DROP MORE THAN CENT

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Feb. 11—Rye prices dropped more than a cent at one time, today, going to new lows since mid-January, but a mild rally late in the session cancelled part of the loss. The weakness in rye unsettled wheat and oats, although losses in the latter two grains were never large and they rallied toward the close.

Selling in rye at the outset came mainly from commission houses, but it was notable that local professional traders were unwilling to give the market much aggressive support. The grain was also weak at Minneapolis and Winnipeg. Some traders felt the disturbing war news from the allied beachhead in Italy caused the selling.

HOMES FOR SERVICE MEN

By International News Service

LONDON—Lord Woolton, minister of reconstruction, speaking in Liverpool, declares British service men will have dwelling priority after the war. Demand for housing will be so much greater than available materials, he warned, that building will be comparatively slow for a time. Claims of service men, he declared, "transcend in importance any question of money or rights of pre-war interests."

PROFIT TAKING SHRINKS BULGE

Dealings Lively at Start but Flow After Initial Flurry.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Feb. 11—Rails, with selected industrials and utilities, enjoyed another early bulge in today's stock market but profit taking on the recent advance eventually slimmed the move.

Dealings lively at the opening soon slowed up and, near the fourth hour, initial gains running to a point or so, were reduced or canceled.

The jump of the forenoon was predicated mainly on further short covering and revival of investment demand attributed to earnings optimism and belief bearishness of the past two weeks or so had been overdone.

Pullman was among favorites touching a 1943-44 top. In front most of the time were N. Y. Central, Union Pacific, Northern Pacific, Western Union "A," North American, Johns-Manville, Montgomery Ward, U. S. Rubber, Goodrich, J. I. Case and Douglas Aircraft. Laggards were Chrysler, Anaconda, DuPont, American Telephone and American Can.

Disney's "Voice of Donald Duck" Is Visitor in Marion

Clarence Nash, "the Voice of Donald Duck," madethree appearances in Marion yesterday giving about a half-hour performance each at Central Junior and Vernon Heights schools and from the Palace theater stage.

The program, given to stimulate sales of war bonds during the present drive and also, as a forerunner to the reissuance of "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs," is a ventriloquism act with Mr. Nash putting words into the mouth of the frenzied fowl. Wisecracks and the speeches by Donald give way to the "imitation bird" giving imitations. The program was an hilarious one and went over big with the audiences, adults as well as children.

Mr. Nash was a bird and animal imitator until he was remembered, after having an audition before Walt Disney, as having a voice like a duck. When a duck was needed to take the punishment that Mickey Mouse as a hero should escape, Mr. Nash was called in and Donald was born. He has been the voice since the character was started 10 years ago.

Principals of both schools reported today that the sale of bonds was stimulated by the performance, although actual figures couldn't be given today. At Central, Mr. Orcutt said 85 Donald Duck autographs offered to children buying a bond, had been given so far and more requests were coming in. Mr. Nash wasn't able to offer the autographs when in the Vernon assembly because of the lack of time.

George Planck, manager of the Palace said Mr. Nash, accompanied by Fred Ford, RKO publicity agent, were to appear in Columbus today.

Marion Woman's Nephew Drowned

Mrs. A. J. Wagner of 557 Girard avenue has been called to Elyria by the death of her nephew, Bobby Brown, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Brown of that city, who was drowned in a river near their home Wednesday. A man found the body lying in the shallow water, shortly before Mrs. Brown and a neighbor reached the river.

The parents and a brother survive.

Funeral services will be conducted in St. Mary Catholic church Saturday morning and burial will be made at Elyria.

Mrs. Wagner was accompanied to Elyria by Mrs. Anna Kathryn McCarty of East Mark street.

Pitfalls of Love

By ADELE GARRISON

INVOLUNTARILY at the sound of the [illegible] look across at the table where Marion, [illegible] in the company of her [illegible] captor, and [illegible] the older of the two men put his hand on our darling's [illegible]

He [illegible] gripped it cruelly [illegible] younger man [illegible] of Marion, a handsome [illegible] young animal, reached across, detached the other man's hand [illegible] muttered oath.

"Leave her alone!" he said. "She'd [illegible] rough stuff."

Uneasy

I was thankful, indeed [illegible] little altercation, for it [illegible] them from seeing what was happening at our own table. [illegible] man gripped Marion's arm, Ronald, with [illegible] uttered oath of his own, started to rise. But Noel, with fortunate quick thinking, pulled him down [illegible] again while I murmured a [illegible]

"Ronald, don't you dare move or speak again until I give you the word! Marion's very life may depend upon your obedience. Now everybody pretend to be eating but keep your ears open."

Fortunately I was sitting facing the table and by using my old trick of lowering my lashes and peering from beneath them, I was able to observe everything that was going on at the other table.

I saw that Marion was forgotten for the instant in the antagonism between her two guards. The younger resented the elder's rough treatment of Marion, and the older man's sense of authority was deeply injured.

Interference

"Who do you think you are, anyway?" the older one demanded. I'm running this thing, as you very well know, and you're not to interfere."

"I'll interfere every time if you lay a finger on her," the younger man said, and I distinctly saw Marion flinch even more than she had with the physical pain of the grip on her wrist. I knew with a great throb of pity that she was far more afraid of the championship of the younger man, than she was of the rough cruelty of the older one.

And then we heard her voice again, unmistakably Marion's voice, raised in protest.

"Of course I don't know those people," she said, "any more than I did that old woman in mourning. I don't know what's got into you today. I wish I hadn't come over here. I thought it would be nice the way it was the other time, but you've got such foolish ideas you're spoiling everything."

Perfect Acting

I did not know our darling possessed such histrionism. She was acting to perfection the role of a petulant aging woman who has been accused of something she did not do.

"Never mind, Baby," the younger man said, and a child could have told he was not addressing an old woman, "don't let him spoil your dinner, I'll attend to him."

I saw Marion flinch again, and knew that Ronald was positively smoldering with wrath, but my attention was focused on the older man who was livid with rage.

"I'll attend to you," he said, stressing the pronoun savagely, "if you speak out of turn again." Then he lowered his voice and evidently scored the other man savagely, careful to screen his lips however, so that I was unable to tell what he was saying.

But that Marion had convinced him she did not know us, I was sure, when after his anger at his associate was spent, he returned to his dinner. And with a feeling of respite for a few minutes, I began to pick up a few dropped [illegible]

"Tell me, Carolyn, [illegible] a good look at the [illegible]"

[illegible]

"I told you I [illegible]"

[illegible] turned to [illegible] as demanded [illegible]

[illegible] I told you [illegible] could [illegible] by you through everything but I [illegible] your [illegible] but I [illegible] Tell me [illegible]

His face [illegible] sudden contorted with fear and misery.

"I do," he faltered.

"Which one?"

"The younger man."

"What is his name?"

"His name"—Carolyn seemed to pull the words from her throat—"he is called 'Big Tony.'"

YOUR HEALTH

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

Infant Feeding

This is the first in a series of articles on modern ideas of the medical management of children. Today infant feeding is discussed. Next week feeding in the second and third years of the child's life.

There has been no change which modern science has made in the belief that every child should be breast fed if possible. Even if breast feeding can be kept up for only a few weeks or months, even if it has to be supplemented by feedings of cow's milk, it gives the baby a nutritional start in life like nothing else.

When it is replaced by artificial feeding by cow's milk a few general principles are all that need be known in order for the modern mother to arrange the formula.

First, and most important, is cleanliness. The bottles and nipples must be boiled before every feeding. The milk must be pasteurized or, preferably, boiled. The protein scum which comes to the surface of boiled milk can be skimmed off without danger to the nutritional quality of the milk since cow's milk has more protein than mother's milk.

The second consideration is the nutritional value of the milk. Cow's milk contains only a little more than half as much sugar as mother's milk, so that has to be supplied.

The sugar of mother's and cow's milk is the same—lactose. But what form of sugar is used to step up the cow's milk formula makes little difference—lactose, maltose, dextrin preparations or the ordinary cane sugar you use in your coffee.

The formula for the baby on cow's milk is:

Whole milk.. 7 ounces (or evaporated milk, 3 ounces)
Sugar .... ½ ounce
Water ...... up to 10 ounces

Divide this into the number of feedings required.

The baby needs 45 calories per pound of weight per day. To find out how much of the above formula it needs divide the calorie requirement by 20, and the result [illegible] the number of ounces of the formula you need. (Example: [illegible] 8 pound [illegible] ounces in 24 hours.)

[illegible] feed [illegible] 24 hours [illegible] of 3 to 4 [illegible] feeding.

[illegible] dietary [illegible] (irradiated) [illegible] the addition of Vitamin D [illegible] cod liver [illegible] Also [illegible] orange juice [illegible] and [illegible] until the age of [illegible] applied [illegible] of the feedings.

[illegible] the first year [illegible] children [illegible]
